DYING MAN SHIELDS
FOE WHO SHOT HIM

Holtsville, Jan. 14.—Joseph R. Lemons, known through western Machines as "King of the Porcuscine Colonies" in Idaho and Indian Orchard, died here today after he had been shot down in a district parlor.
His slayer, escaped and the police of a score of cities and towns are seeking him today.
Lemons had acted as interpreter for his people in court and was also the intermediary between the Porcuscine mill operatives and manufacturers.
Lemons and another man drove here from Indian Orchard in Lemons' automobile. They visited afternoon and then drank and finally entered a place in Cabot street.
He and his companion went to the bar and were conversing in Porcuscine. Suddenly there came a flash of a revolver and the "King of the Porcu-scine" lay on the floor.

NARROW GAUGE R. R.
TRAIN IS WRECKED

The engine and one car of a Winthrop Narrow Gauge train was derailed today near Orient Heights station, blocking the main line and ward traffic for more than an hour.
Occurring in the height of the morning rush hour, the wreck delayed thousands of commuters bound for work. Passengers on the derailed train were shaken up.
The engine and car were derailed automatically when air brakes failed to work and the train rode by a signal set against it. The automatic derail system on the Narrow Gauge is a safety device which sets a split switch, which runs the train onto the roadbed.
Delayed commuters, with the two Winthrop rails blocked, walked 100 yards and boarded a train from

GIRL VANISHES 3 CHILDREN, IN FROM HOME FIRE, MAY DIE

For her first absence from home, 17-year-old Bertha J. Westin has made it a good one, three days having passed since she vanished from her home, No. 70 Flint street, East Somerville.
Today the police were asked to trace the girl, who slipped out of her home Monday morning, dressed so quietly that her sister did not hear her, tossed an extra hat, coat and two dresses into a bag—and vanished into the gloom.
Bertha is believed to have become restless at home, as "teenagers" do sometimes. She is five feet eight inches tall, weighs 140 pounds, is more or less stocky, has a medium complexion, brown bobbed hair, and large hazel eyes.
Of the two dresses she took with her is a red and one is black. The coats, one of which she wore and one of her hats is black, the other

ALVITI SEIZED UNDER
'BLUE SKY' LAW FOR
PONZI SCHEME SALE

Charles Ponzi's Boston agent, Galeodino Alviti, was arrested today by State Detective Joseph Ferraro on a warrant charging violation of the "blue sky law" which protects purchasers of securities from fraud.
His arrest by State authorities was the climax of a race to crush Ponzi's latest Boston venture between Attorney General Benton and District Attorney O'Brien, the former procuring the warrant, while O'Brien had Alviti in his office interviewing him with a view to starting Grand jury proceedings.

The State arm of the law gun the same here from Florida, Alviti visited with Ferraro in the State house where he was taken to the office of the State Police and later to the office of Attorney General Benton.
Alviti sold a "raft of indifference" in Ponzi's hand syndicate to Kenneth Buchanan of the Boston Inter-Business Commission, the police source.
The warrant was issued by Justice Fred in application made by the State Detective Joseph Ferraro and Assistant Attorney General James H. DeWitt, who are working under the direction of Attorney General Benton.
Simultaneously, justice inposure in Boston got preparations from this chief, H. H. Simmons, at Washington to keep a close eye on Ponzi's activities, most of which are being conducted through the mails.
It is said.
Chief Inspector Simmons is undertaking an independent investigation from the Washington headquarters.

WHERE FLOODS SURGED HIGH THROUGH CITY STREETS IN FRANCE, HOLLAND AND GERMANY

The height of the floods in France may be realized when the river under this bridge at Paris de l'Alme when normal permits the passage of sleepers with masts. All along the Seine banks were similar scenes, with the inhabitants on constant watch.

SCOFFS AT WARNINGS OF DEATH
Devotion to suffering humanity is stronger than dread of death in the brave make-up of Dr. James A. Day of Waltham.

Dr. Day, Who Lost Arm by Devotion to Duty, Goes Back to His Post

Leading against the warning of physicians, the hospital where, a week ago, he was thought to be dying from the ravages of X-ray burns, he returned to his post, for he could not bear to leave his regular patients bereft of his services.

And before he left the hospital he gave his assistant arm to his doctor for a few experimental operations.

Armless and with the amputation of the doctors that his condition was still critical, he went to his post, for he knew that his patients would be disappointed if he did not return to the world as a martyr to the cause of medical and surgical science.

Dr. Day went to the Massachusetts General Hospital, which right arm became infected as a result of twenty years' work with the X-ray apparatus. The arm was taken off at the shoulder, leaving two fingers of the left hand were taken off.

It was only after persistent demand that he was allowed to leave the hospital.

THEATRE IN DANVERS BURNS
Danvers, Jan. 4.—The Elm Theatre, in the heart of Danvers, was destroyed by fire today, with a loss estimated at $200,000.

Loss Estimated at $70,000 as Flames Menace Famed Barry Tavern

For a time the flames raged through the theatre walls, threatened to take Barry Tavern, the first house, burned a narrow escape on its way to Quaker.

When a few moments the flames had eaten their way to the interior of the theatre, which was seen a scene of flames.

By the time the flames arrived the flames had eaten through the theatre walls in several places and were threatening adjoining property.

A company of firemen was called to keep the Barry Tavern from being a wall of water in order to save the historic and building. Several times smoke started from the roof of the theatre, but the firemen on guard prevented the spread of the flames.

The theatre building was completely covered by the fire, which was seen from the street, but the firemen, who had been running motor pumps in it since Mr. Brown was on the scene, and after making over his property, returned to the fire at 10:30.

RETAILERS MAY RAISE PRICE

Railroad Says It Is Losing $700,000 Yearly Under Present Contract

And now comes a probable increase in the price of milk. It's not the fault of the cows, who are doing their bit, nor the farmers, who are doing theirs, but the railroad rates.

The Boston & Maine Railroad today announced that it will increase its freight rates for milk and cream transportation from 20 to 30 per cent.

The road figures that it carries a ton of more than 10,000 tons a year for the milk that has been in stock for the transportation of milk, and the railroad's statement says that the increase will result in an increase of the retail price of milk. They place the increase at no more than one-fifth of a cent a quart, saying that farmers on the whole will be able to absorb a part of the increase of an average of one-fifth of a cent.

TAX PUBLICITY BAN APPROVED IN COMMITTEE

Providence, Jan. 14 (A.P.)—The House Committee on Finance today approved a bill to prohibit the publication of publicity of income tax returns. The bill was reported by the committee on the provision to the House Tax Bill.

Senator McNamara yesterday he would propose a program for tax reduction of $100,000,000 or $150,000,000 more than proposed in the measure as now.

It was announced by Chairman Smith that the consideration of the bill by the committee probably could be completed this week, and under the program it probably would be done in some time next week by the Senate.

Miss Margaret Nolan of East Boston is recovering from injuries suffered when she was hit by an auto at Washington and State streets.

Named Postmaster
Washington, Jan. 13 (U.S.A.)—The United States Post Office today named Miss Margaret Nolan of East Boston as postmaster at Washington and State streets, Boston, Mass.

LINER ARRIVES WITH BODY OF W. L. TAYLOR

Group of Mourners Greet the Widow of Editor at Pier; 2d World Tourist Dies Abroad

The body of the late William L. Taylor, editor of the Boston Herald, arrived today by the liner Massachusetts from London. A group of mourners gathered at the pier to greet the widow, Mrs. Taylor, and her children. The body was taken to the home of the family in Boston. Taylor was a well-known journalist and editor. He was killed in a car accident in London while on his way to work.

Dr. Masse Praises Spiritual Zeal of Catholics

Praises was awarded the Catholic League in Boston, D. C. in the revival address at St. Vincent's.

Dr. Masse, a prominent Catholic priest, delivered a powerful address at St. Vincent's Church in Boston. He praised the spiritual zeal and devotion of the Catholic community in the city. His address was well-received by the congregation, and he was awarded a special honor by the Catholic League in Boston.

MARRIED THIRD MAN, BELIEVING TWO DEAD

That's the Plea of Girl Held by Court for a Hearing in Charleston

A young woman, charged with the murder of her husband, is being held in Charleston, S. C., for a hearing. She claims that she believed her husband and another man were dead, and she married a third man. The case is being handled by the local courts.

Trade in Britain's modern history, the balance being almost two billions of dollars against the British. Forty-five million additional pounds of imports, a loss of thirty-three million pounds of exports, make the British unhappy. But they "muddle through" in the British way, and will come out on top.

UNCLE SAM is riding along on velvet. Everything, including Providence, seems to be with us now.

IN REAL ESTATE conditions throughout the country are improving. Frederick Brown of New York, perhaps the biggest estate operator in the world, was called reckless two or three years ago when he said: "Real estate values in big cities are more in the air than on the ground. Hereafter, a factory building in New York must be considered a taxpayer waiting to be torn down to make way for a real building."

Now they tear down 17 and 19 story hotels, to make room for 40 and 50 story buildings. When you buy the ground and the air above it, the air is more valuable than the land.

THE CITY OF CARLEISLE, in England, makes a wise experiment, fighting the taste for whiskey by selling good hot soup at two cents a bowl. This nation does not appreciate the value of good soup as a food, a normal, healthy stimulant and builder of strength. The French say that good conversation produces half of a dinner's digestion. A well made soup at the beginning of the dinner provides the other half, and Americans ought to know it. Give soup to your children.

GOVERNOR PINCHOT, calling a special session of the Pennsylvania Legislature, wants to make coal mines a public utility, establishing public control of a resource that derives all its value from public consumption. Governor Pinchot says the coal conference collapse is the fault of the mine owners. The latter say, but don't sign their names to the statement, that the trouble was too much drinking and drinking by the workmen's representatives. Officials of the Governor say this is a lie, and mine owners are trying to break up the union.

THE PUBLIC as usual have nothing to say, they pay the bills and wait. The Pennsylvania Legislature will probably not give Governor Pinchot the law that he asks for.

CITIZENS OF MINNESOTA got from their State University interesting information about the beginning of life on this planet, in the form of algae. Two hundred million years ago. The first life came as well as the earth's temperature fell below the boiling point.

One of the first real animals was an ancestor of our frogs and salamanders. It was on land and in water, with a foot four inches in diameter. It is from the five toes of the salamander, you know, that we get the five fingers on each hand, according to the evolutionists.

MATHEMATICIANS who that mathematician had had six toes. That would have given us the decimal system based on the decimal system, which is based on our ten fingers and thumbs. The duodecimal system would be a great improvement on the decimal system, having four divisions, ten having only two.

CARDINAL MERCIER WEAK, BUT TAKES NOURISHMENT
Bismarck, Jan. 14 (A.P.)—Cardinal Mercier's condition, following his recent operation, was satisfactory today. A disquieting weakness persists, although the aged prelate is able to take more nourishment.

JUDGE SHELDOON
82, IS DEAD

Henry Newton Sheldon, eighty-two, former justice of Superior Judicial Court and for years one of the most prominent men in the town, died today of the Chicago type of heart attack after a short illness.

He was born in Waterville, Me., and was graduated from Harvard in 1883. During the Civil War he served as first lieutenant in the Fifty-fifth Massachusetts Regiment. On February 1, 1894, he was appointed associate justice of Superior Court and in 1901 was elevated to the bench of Superior Court. He died in 1918.

Ex-Justice Dies

Henry Newton Sheldon, Harvard, '83, and former State Supreme Court justice, who died today in Black Bay hotel.

Here are a sample few of the letters the Clever Young Woman answers during the day:

"Where can I get fur coat polish?" Mrs. H. M. S., Dorchester.

"What store has Orinella drapery fabrics?" Mrs. C. C., Belmont.

"Where can I get some candles, about 3 by 4 inches, not too expensive?" C. W. L., Sandwich.

"Please let me know where I can get the Corona typewriter."

J. K. M., Canton.

"I wish to weave baskets. When can I get the reed or wicker to weave them? I have to hear from you before Saturday as I am going to Boston then." Miss D. M. R., W. Roxbury.

Miss D. M. R. had the answer to her letter Wednesday morning.

Her letter answered Tuesday.

All inquiries are answered as promptly.

That's why we mention that the information is more than mere information—that it is serviceable information that saves much needless walking in circles.

HUB STREET NARROWEST IN WORLD

Residents of St. Augustine, Fla., oldest city in America, contend Treasury street, 10 feet wide is the world's narrowest highway. But the real straight and narrow path is in Boston. Webster avenue is only 6 1/2 feet wide and Elizabeth Donovan, Charlestown, is shown spanning it with her arms.

BENEFIT PLAY FOR VETS

Former soldiers and sailors who are suffering from injuries received in the World War will be materially aided by a benefit performance to be given at the Casino Theatre. The play is the "Alice's Fish Bowl" comedy on Thursday, January 14. Mrs. Anne Nichols, author and producer of the play, has generously offered to give the entire proceeds from the evening performance to the benefit of the disabled veterans. In order that the aid might be most effective the funds will be donated to the Disabled Veterans' Home on Boston street.

Bagdad Has Narrow Streets, But Boston Boasts Webster Avenue Beats All for Space

Where's the narrowest street in the United States? Town in St. Augustine, Fla., they tell you that Treasury street in that city is positively the narrowest thoroughfare in the United States. But Boston likes to challenge the claim. St. Augustine may be the oldest city in the country, but it is not the narrowest. It is in Boston and it's called Webster avenue. But Boston likes to challenge the claim. St. Augustine may be the oldest city in the country, but it is not the narrowest. It is in Boston and it's called Webster avenue.

15 WEASEL POPS IN FIDDLE TEST

Steady hands will win generous remuneration with wiggle and bob-wiggle bows will tap rhythmically when fifteen old-fashioned fiddlers, trained to the task, vie with one another for choicest prizes and supremacy in an old-time fiddle contest March 20 at the Boston Square and Company Club, Boston street. The musical marathon will arrive from various New England and Canadian border towns, according to W. E. Terrence, president of the Mammie organization. Three competent judges from the New England Conservatory of Music will and invited came to determine which two of the fifteen fill the bellows with the most swelling harmonies and display the most polished technique. There will be awarded silver cups, and a silver prize will go to each of the others.

TRY TO PROVE G. WASHINGTON DIDN'T 'CUSS'

Washington, Jan. 14 (A.P.)—A speech by Robert Hughes, author, describing George Washington as "profane, irascible and pleasure-loving," has impelled members of some of the patriotic societies here to dig into the files of the Congressional Library for ammunition with which to reply. The remarks were made at a meeting of the District of Columbia Chapter of the Sons of the Revolution, and resulted in a rebuke from officials of the organization. Mr. Hughes said he merely was stating an "essential truth" which he characterized Washington as "a great self-player, a dufler of whiskey and a 'whomper cuss' who constantly avoided participation in religious communion."

May Seek Divorce

Mrs. Irene Schoelkopf, wealthy Buffalo woman, is now on her way to Paris to seek a divorce, according to Dame Rumor. Three years ago at a New Year's party, Mrs. Schoelkopf was robbed of $500,000 in jewels.

CLOUDS SPOIL FULL VIEW OF ECLIPSE

Only partial success attended the efforts of American scientists to photograph the total eclipse of the sun in Sumatra, according to a cablegram received today by the Harvard Observatory. "Thin clouds, partially sunless," was the lamentous message from Professor Martin T. Heisenberg of the Harvard Observatory staff, who, with other scientists, went half way round the world to be in the path of the great shadow early today. Other notes than Sumatra, and it is thought possible by officials at the observatory that these may have had more success. Word also reached Harvard today that "Purina's Comet," named after Horace Tuttle of the Harvard Observatory staff, was seen January 12 by Dr. Walter Baade of Hamburg, Germany, Observatory. This comet is a periodic one, returning every 13 1/2 years. It was originally discovered by Schalle in 1796 and recorded by Tuttle in 1858.

DISTRESS SIGNAL PUT UP BY PRINCE PAUL

Chicago, Jan. 14 (A.P.)—Prince Paul of Greece, heir apparent of Greece, left a flurry of comment behind regarding the display of the Greek flag at his hotel, when he left for New York. The flag was flown from the Blackstone Hotel, staff while the Prince was a guest. Since Greece is a republic and Colonel General De Posto, of Greece, took no official notice of the Prince, display of the republic's colors for a leading monarch was considered unusual. Indirectly the flag was a signal of distress at sea. The colors were hoisted at the suggestion of Mrs. Nelson Morris, former United States envoy to Greece. The Einstein effect were damaged and said that if this was the case the Einstein experiment will have failed. "Greatly pleased over results," said Dr. Miller's colleagues. "Shape of corona was of maximum type. Numerous spots on the solar surface on days before the eclipse, hence we expect very much interest and detail in the corona." Captain Palfrey Better. Capt. Robert G. Palfrey, marine superintendent of the Stuart Hotel in this city, who was stricken with pneumonia in New York, has passed the crisis and is on the road to recovery, it was announced today.

What Made Them Fight So Well?

Answer: They, the Common Soldiers, Owned the Land of France

This plain monument means more to the French than any monument erected after the great war.

The French words, in big letters, read: "Ici triompha la tenacité du soldat," which means, "Here triumphed the tenacity of the French soldier."

"Polka" is a word used to designate the soldier in the ranks.

You will observe that the French erect this monument, on the spot where the Germans came to get such peace terms as the Allies chose to give them, TO THE COMMON SOLDIER.

It is not a monument to Poch, to any of the French mar-

This monument, at the spot where the Germans crossed the French line to ask for peace, celebrates the glory of the French soldier.

shals or great generals, not a monument to Clemenceau, or any of the statesmen that helped to bring the war to a successful end.

This is a monument to the TENACITY of the common soldier.

And no better words could be put on a monument.

Every nation owes its glory and real success to the TENACITY of the ordinary people.

The French common soldier held out, lived and suffered in the trenches, went on fighting while his comrades were killed. He deserves the honor paid to him by his countrymen.

A wonderful word, "TENACITY." It comes from "tenax," which means to hold on.

To hold on, to struggle, to resist, never to give up, that means SUCCESS.

The French fought well because it is in them, because they inherit FIGHTING, THINKING and COURAGE from their fathers and mothers for thousands of years back.

They fought also BECAUSE THE COMMON PEOPLE OWN THE SOIL OF FRANCE.

The Revolution GAVE it to them, and they have held on to it with TENACITY.

There are only 40,000,000 people in France, and 6,000,000 are owners of land.

That is more than we can say for this glorious country, where we have too much landlordism, too few land OWNERS.

Nevertheless, there is plenty of land for us all here, and eventually we shall all have as much as we want; more, perhaps, than we need.

As Americans have proved often, they are ready to fight for the land, when they own any land or not, merely for the flag.

That's true of the French, Germans, Italians, English. The human race is feeble, but it has some good qualities. PATRIOTISM IS, PERHAPS, THE MOST IMPORTANT OF THEM ALL. It gives to each race its chance to get started.

On a Dark Highway at Night

Show a White Handkerchief

Appalled by the revelation that 755 Massachusetts folk met death by motor vehicles in the year which has just passed, thoughtful citizens all over the Commonwealth are considering how the menace may be lessened.

One suggestion, which may be helpful, is offered by Dr. George W. Hayward, chairman of the Pedestrian Hazard Committee of the Lynn Chamber of Commerce.

"Before you start to cross a dark street at night," Dr. Hayward advises, "take a white handkerchief from your pocket or bag, or carry some similar white object equally large, to the end that the approaching autist will be able to 'pick it up,' with his lights."

December's fatal automobile accidents in Lynn numbered three. Investigation showed, Dr. Hayward tells us, that not one of the victims wore anything white, or carried anything white, that might have cautioned the motorist.

Basing his figures for the present year upon the 755 total for 1925, Registrar Goodwin looks for a death list of 800 names.

Perhaps a white handkerchief will keep YOUR name off that list.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

Whoa!

Is the Senate holding Uncle Sam back? Or is the Senate giving him a push? Every individual Senator should be made to explain clearly just which he is doing.

The man who sends the United States on the toboggan of the League of Nations, as Senator Bruce of Maryland, a Wilson Democrat, admitted so candidly last week.

He forces the United States into not one foreign entanglement but into an unending sequence of many entanglements, most of them none of our business.

Mr. Bok doesn't care. He stands on the firm foundation of many millions of dollars, made because he was enabled to come from Holland to a free America. The Senate should take a good look at the "slush" he is pouring on the slide.

MEDBURY SAYS—

By John P. Medbury
L'AMBIENT and other materials have situated as in your first long supplies don't afford to build air dailies any more.

It puts twice as much in demand about a home newspaper as it used to be.

ROMANTIC people have to confine their thinking to far-fetched reasons.

YOUNG folks should never wish to spend their money.

ONE fellow and his friends were drinking about the house they were going to build some day and get into an argument over the furniture.

THEY couldn't come to any agreement on the kitchen.

SHE wanted a wink with a single eye and he wanted one with two.

THEY finally decided to let the kitchen go and eat their meals out.

THEY then had another quarrel. She demanded that the telephone be in the hall and he insisted upon having it in the bedroom.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson
MRS. HORACE WHITT wants to know if I'll give my idea of "woman's place in politics."

Dislighted, my dear.

My idea of woman's place in politics is out of men.

Now get me right. I'm not an anti-feminist. I believe that women should have the vote. I believe that they have just as much right to the vote as any man and can use it just as intelligently.

I am believe that there are certain departments of public life which will profit by the services of women. We need women in our juvenile Court Work. We need Policewomen. We need women in public playground work and in all other public extensions of the mothering job.

But I do not think that we need women "in politics" or that women will profit by entering the political life.

That politics is unprincipled and selfishness, "politics" is the selfishness in man.

Yes, I've lived that before. It's a very bittering poison. It is called "politics" because it is the poison of the soul.

And any lady who doesn't uphold that slogan is winning a lot of trouble in herself. I'm a housekeeper myself and I've been engaged in every branch of that honorable service. I'm also a public worker, up to my knuckles in the political brew through which all journalists must wade. And I'm here to tell the world that—

The game of politics is not municipal housekeeping.

Nor is it adapted to the mental and spiritual needs of housekeepers.

Politics is a man's game. It is a struggle for power.

Not a struggle for "normal advancement" or "intellectual dominance" or "civil progress," but the plain desire to beat the other fellow to it and run the works.

"Then do I think women should read, garden, seclude, ladylike lives?"

Heaven forbid!

Women need action as much as men. Large, energetic, colorful goals of action that suits their particular psychology and is tied up with their peculiar talents. Which politics isn't.

Let's develop our own game, ladies. It's a good game and it makes the whole of a nation. But it's on this business of trying to put the lace doll on the hummer and of telling little boys to kiss each other and lie friends. It won't work. Copyright, 1926, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By Helen Rowland
A MAN takes a woman for better or worse—and then starts right in looking for the "worse."

The most amazing thing about a girl's way of dressing, these days, is not her startling display of brass, but her startling display of NERVE.

First, under "understanding" which a man offers a "mild disapproval" even as is usually about 2 per cent. "sympathetic"—and all the rest synthetic.

Alas, Solomon never wrote a book on "How to Win a Woman." But then, he was probably too busy at his life, trying to escape from one of them to stop and theorize about it.

Extracting a confession from the average man is like extracting a wisdom tooth. You have to dig so hard to get at the root of it—and even then, you can never be sure that you have got it ALL out.

THOUGHTS OF REVENGE ONLY STORE UP TROUBLE!

"I cannot sleep after anything disagreeable has happened to me," says a Pittsburgh man. "For I keep thinking about it till my mind runs on thoughts of revenge, sometimes of a diabolical nature."

Perhaps you have experienced the same state of mind. Restless, unable to sleep, revengeful plans may result from your harboring thoughts of your annoying experiences.

After a wakeful night, one is apt to do things which bring censure. How foolish then to allow yourself to be wrought up.

What do you gain when you picture the vengeance you will wreak upon the cause of your anger? You should be ashamed to try to plan, and continue to foster thoughts of injury against one who has injured you.

If you continue to think these thoughts you may get to the point where you lose self control and actually harm someone. That will only bring disgrace and sorrow upon the ones you hold most dear, and the revenge will not help in any way.

Forget your troubles and your rivals and your supposed enemies for a while and when you are rested, things won't look so bleak. Copyright, 1926, International Feature Service, Inc.

ENDLESS ENDURANCE IN FACE OF DUNES

By DR. FRANK CRANE

SOME time ago the writer visited the wild sand dune country of northern Indiana.

This sandy waste stretches along the southern shore of Lake Michigan, between Gary and Michigan City.

The high sandhills are ages old. Some are "wandering dunes." Moving slowly through the years, they have worked eastward.

In their track new dunes are born. Others are fixed and on their sides sand cherries and stunted pines struggle for existence.

Indians have come and gone; pioneer scouts have given place to adventuresome settlers and they in turn have made way for the teeming city bred; but the dunes have remained.

Over them the great invention of the age had a cradle and a culmination.

Here Octave Chanute made experiments with gliders, giving his information to the Wright brothers later on. And here day and night great roaring planes fly overhead, carrying the mails from Cleveland and Chicago.

The dunes have outlived the wilderness; they continue untamed in the heart of civilization.

In their enduring ruggedness there is a message of inspiration that helps one who feels it to "hold on" in the trials of life.

The face of the dunes is like the face of the common people. It is grim, determined, enduring.

It possesses neither the kindly grandeur of the towering mountains nor the subject serfdom of impotent deserts.

Through the passing chills it has remained, remained in spite of wind and wave, remained one of the enigmas of geological endurance.

Buffeted, driven about, torn asunder, the particles yet remain, and remaining, combine in lines that alter day by day, that move, that retreat, that advance; but lines that lie in the shadows of evening, gray, gaunt, beaten and deformed—but sublimely everlasting.

In the face of the dunes there is seen this example of endless endurance.

In its barren beauty there speaks a message of grim courage and indomitable lasting power.

MAGNETIC LAW OF THE SUN

By Garrett P. Serviss
Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

ON THIS summit of that lofty mountain, Mount Wilson, in California, is a "tower telescope" 150 feet in height and beneath it is a well eighty feet in depth.

The telescope points straight at the sky, and from its focus at the bottom of the tower an image of the sun 144 inches in diameter.

This falls upon the slit of a spectroscopic, seventy-five feet in length which the enormous form of the sun fills the top of the well to the bottom of the top of the well to the bottom of the top of the well.

Sun Spots
Every reader knows that in periods of about eleven years, spots appear upon the sun, first at the beginning of a period, but becoming numerous as it progresses. These spots are centres of powerful magnetic fields, and the Mount Wilson astronomers have not only proved that the entire rotating sun is a great magnet, but they have discovered a great law of magnetic polarity governing the sun spots, and whose further development may

Spots north polarity and "S" south polarity. The curves show how the spots of each eleven and a half year period draw equatorward until the last spots of each period are seen quite near the equator.

But before they entirely disappear a new period breaks out in the higher latitudes both north and south of the equator. So spots belonging to two successive periods may exist simultaneously on the sun, those of the dying period being always near the equator, and those of the new-born one, always far north or south of it.

Now, taking the first full period, beginning toward the left-hand side of the diagram (and remembering that the right-hand spot in each pair is the preceding one, as they are carried around by the sun's axial rotation, observe that through-lead to an unpredictable advance of scientific knowledge of the sun in the most important body in the universe. For though, we live on the earth, at the same time we live by the sun, for the sun gives and sustains of all forms of terrestrial life.

The clue to the discovery mentioned lies in the fact that the spots tend to form "bipolar" groups, or, whose principal members possess opposite magnetic polarity.

When a sunspot appears, it begins, as in 1913 and 1914, the first spots of the new period appear far from the equator in both the northern and the southern hemisphere.

of the sun. Then, as the years go by, the spots draw gradually inward from both sides toward the equator, and the last spots of the period appear near the equator, while the first spots of the next succeeding period break out in the higher latitudes before those of the preceding period are entirely out.

Now, keeping these facts in mind, let us try to understand the newly discovered magnetic law of sun spots with the aid of a diagram based on one used by Dr. George E. Hale, the first, and now honorary, director of the Mount Wilson Observatory.

We have represented two sunspot periods together with the end of a third and the beginning of a fourth. Both the northern and the southern hemisphere of the sun are shown up to 30 degrees from the equator.

The letters "N" and "S" represent the respective polarities of the spots to which they are attached in the bipolar groups. Spots north polarity and "S" south polarity. The curves show how the spots of each eleven and a half year period draw equatorward until the last spots of each period are seen quite near the equator.

But before they entirely disappear a new period breaks out in the higher latitudes both north and south of the equator. So spots belonging to two successive periods may exist simultaneously on the sun, those of the dying period being always near the equator, and those of the new-born one, always far north or south of it.
